Which design type are you?

The things we surround ourselves with are also an expression of our personality. Design is therefore much more than just a beautiful form. It is the universal language that reflects our individuality and lifestyle. The Terrea K55 designer awning embodies this philosophy by combining quality and aesthetics in a unique way. The development was guided by an uncompromising design language that sets new standards.

The Terrea K55 appeals to people with high design standards: with its harmonious combination of straight and curved shapes, it is ideal for cubic-modern or flowing-playful architectural styles. As a strong unit reduced to the essentials, the new patio awning blends visually with the wall to which it is discreetly attached – or it can be used to add specific colour accents. Whether for a new building or modernisation: our Terrea K55 offers you the freedom to realise your personal style.

You can choose from high-grade materials, an extensive range of equipment and the entire WAREMA Colour World spectrum. Be inspired by how the Terrea K55 can beautify and enrich your life and your home – just the way you like it.

My style: pure design

For me, design is music given form. That's why the Terrea K55 designer awning strikes a chord with me. The music business and love brought me from California to Berlin. Now I feel right at home here in the Berlin area. And our home reflects my passion for music, art and culture.

The new Terrea designer awning not only complements our architecture: together with the red windows, patio doors and wall cladding, it lends the brick facade a lively rhythm.

It's best when our friends come out to visit us at the weekend. Then we extend the awning and spend the whole day outside. During the day, we enjoy the shade. And when it gets cooler, we switch on the dimmable design radiant heater and the creative get-together continues.

Whether extended or retracted – in my opinion, the Terrea K55 always looks good. I love the minimalist design of the cassette, with almost no visible screws. It's often the small details that make the big difference. Just like in music.

In short: for me the Terrea K55 embodies pure design, which brings joy and lightness into my life.

Just how I like it: fresh. Beautiful. Unique.

I often travel to Japan and other parts of Asia, and I also speak a little Japanese. The people, their way of life, the traditionally clear architecture, and the minimalist artistry of the gardens inspire me every time. What's more, as someone who enjoys sport, I love the varied, healthy lifestyle of the region.

The green found in nature is my source of strength. That's why colour plays a central role in our home. The designer awning suits my style and attitude. For me, green is an expression of joie de vivre and encourages activity.

But it's not just the unique shape and colour that I like. When we extend the Terrea K55, it changes the entire effect of our patio and garden. Our outdoor area becomes the centre of our lives. When the sun goes down, we wind down the valance roller blind bit by bit. That's how we end almost every summer day in the fresh air.

In short: for me, my Terrea K55 embodies unique design. It bridges the gap between my love of nature and my passion for purist design.

Terrea K55

My style.
My statement.

As an architect, I see my new Terrea K55 not just as an awning, but as a sustainable design element. The consistent design language with its clean lines blends seamlessly into the aesthetics of our house.

What I particularly like in terms of style is that the cassette, with its rounded shapes, blends harmoniously into the patio and yet is still an eye-catcher. I am also impressed by sophisticated features such as the LED strips integrated into the cassette. Whether the designer awning is extended or retracted, we enjoy atmospheric lighting at dusk. The lighting is also energy-efficient.

Our house is constructed from sustainable building materials, and we have utilised many natural building materials. In this respect, too, the designer awning fits perfectly into our concept. Its high quality makes it durable, thus saving valuable resources. The shading it provides keeps our living area cool in a natural way, allowing us to do without energy-intensive air conditioning.

In short: sustainability can be this beautiful.

Equipment K55

The Terrea K55 designer awning is an expression of your personality. The cassette, articulated arms and other components made of high-grade aluminium are individually powder-coated. The extensive WAREMA Colour World is available for this purpose. You will find the right awning fabric for you in our SPECTRUM collection. When retracted, the fabric disappears completely into the cassette, where it remains protected from the weather.

The new Terrea impresses with its high quality and longevity. With the clever WMS radio system, this luxurious shade provider can be conveniently extended and retracted using a remote control or smartphone app – and can also be controlled automatically according to weather conditions. This means that the cassette awning remains protected in the event of sudden bad weather, even when you are not at home.

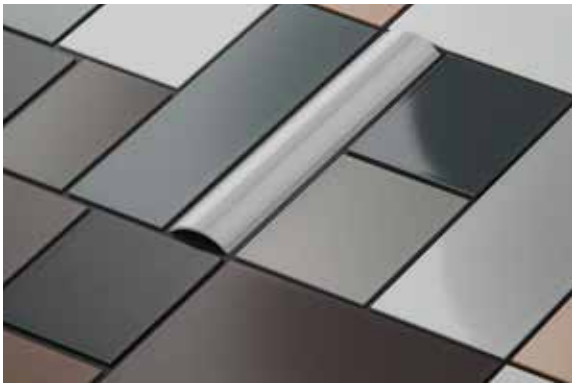
Unique features



Experience the exclusive WAREMA Colour World

Design the Terrea designer awning to suit your personal style and choose your favourite shade from the WAREMA Colour World. Choose between bold accents – or discreet integration into the facade, depending on your design preferences!

SPECTRUM awning collection

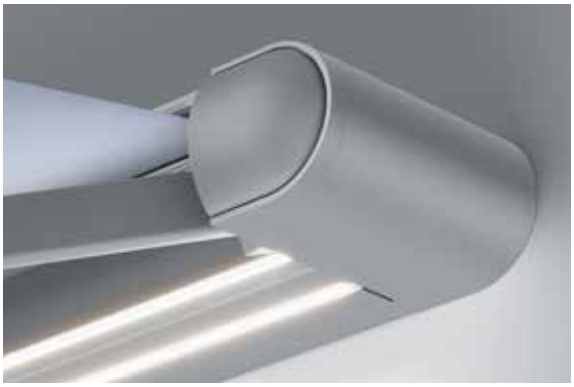
The awning fabrics used by WAREMA meet the highest quality standards and are available in over 200 designs – from modern acrylic plain coloured designs to classic block stripes. The choice is yours!

The optional valance roller blind

The infinitely variable valance roller blind provides greater privacy and glare-free views: it protects against unwanted glances, light wind and low sun, especially on the west side. Operation via crank.

A cosy atmosphere thanks to design radiant heaters

When temperatures drop and you want to continue using your patio after dusk: the powerful WAREMA design radiant heater (2200 watts) in the colour of your awning frame can also be regulated in three heat settings using a WMS dimmer (0–10 V).



Integrated, dimmable LED lighting

Dimmable LED strips integrated into the cassette enable large-area lighting of your patio. The design can be implemented on the underside or, for soft ambient lighting, optionally also inside the cassette. Both options can be combined with each other.

Smart control for increased comfort and safety

With the clever WMS radio system, awnings, radiant heaters and lighting can be comfortably operated via remote control, smartphone or Alexa voice assistant. With a WMS weather station, the shade provider is controlled automatically according to weather conditions. This means that the awning is protected in bad weather – even when you are not at home.
